COSMETIC COMPOSITION COMPRISING A POLYMER

ABSTRACT

The present disclosure relates to a cosmetic composition comprising a dispersion of particles of at least one grafted acrylic polymer in a liquid fatty phase. The at least one grafted acrylic polymer is optionally obtained by polymerizing at least one acidic ethylenic monomer, at least one non-acidic acrylic monomer, and at least one macromonomer. The composition allows a deposit to be formed on keratin fibers that exhibits good transfer resistance, especially in the presence of sebum, perspiration, or water. In addition, the present disclosure relates to a method for applying the composition to keratin materials.
